

Rob Kleeger is the Managing Director at The Intelligence Group. His experience for several years in engaging and developing early stage complex technical digital forensic investigation services for law firms, all size corporations, corporate IT and/or security executives, human resource professionals, and other litigation support professionals. His involvement has been managing investigations in matters involving crimes facilitated by computers, such as Data Theft, Restricted Covenant, Non-Compete, Sexual Harassment, Discrimination, Theft of IP, Commercial Litigation, Embezzlement, Bankruptcy, Class Actions, Toxic Tort, SEC/Securities, matrimonial related matters, criminal, and many more.

Kleeger works with clients to develop strategies and implement cutting-edge technologies to manage cost related issues related to ESI (Electronically Stored Information). He has assisted helping corporations and their outside counsel confronted with the challenges, increased costs of navigating the complex and seemingly ever-changing world of eDiscovery, Digital Investigations, and Legal issues pertaining to ESI. Mr. Kleeger regularly counsels attorneys, business owners, general counsel, and HR professionals about this emerging and rapidly growing electronic discovery (eDiscovery) field. He has counseled his clients through 100's of cases in both the federal and state courts.

Kleeger regularly provides non-technical lectures to law firms and litigation attorneys and their staff through "lunch & learns". Notably, Mr. Kleeger was selected to participate on an e-Discovery "Virtual Advisory Board" for The Institute for the Advancement of the American Legal System (IAALS). He is a faculty member of Lawline.com, a former faculty member of the NJ Superior Court Judicial College of the Administrative Office, a panelist at Rutgers–Newark Law School symposium on "E-Discovery and Its Impact on Corporate Governance and Litigation", presented on behalf of Half Moon CLE Seminars E-Discovery: Is Your Business Ready To Navigate Through The Minefield?, The Garden State Council SHRM Annual Conference & Expo "HR on Trial", New Jersey Defense Association "Strategies to Protect Employers from Claims Arising from Computer Misuse and Abuse and the Use of Digital Forensics as a Discovery Tool", 2008 Spring Conference for ITA (Information Technology Alliance), featured on WNBC/NBC 4 News Channel, and many other conferences and seminars around the Metro area and nationally. In addition, he is an author and co-author of several articles relating to ESI and e-discovery practices.

Mr. Kleeger is co-founder and board member of the Legal Resource Group (an association of high quality, like-minded professionals committed to delivering the highest quality services and solutions to the legal community), member of ALSP (The Association of Litigation Support Professionals), Foundation Board member for Mercer County Bar, and active in many other professional organizations.
