

Great Britain's Defense Leadership Centre (DLC) defines management as the allocation and control of resources (human, material and financial) to achieve objectives, often within the constraints of time. Management requires the capability to deploy a range of techniques and skills to enhance and facilitate the planning, organizations and execution of the business.