

2020 Legal Innovator of the Year

Kristen Porter

Group General Counsel | Dexar Group

Kristen Porter can't help but innovate. Kristen created Pria Privacy, a data breach assessment and notification bot that helps clients comply, contain and communicate. Pria Privacy is an on demand, self-service solution that protects reputations and removes lawyers from the equation, freeing up legal to focus on large strategic projects.

Schellie-Jayne Price

Senior Legal Counsel | Chevron Australia

Schellie-Jayne championed legal innovation at Chevron by establishing "TIGLS" (Technology Interest Group Law and Supply Chain). She pioneered low code solutions by building "CAM" (Confidentiality Agreement Maker) contract automation app, inspiring other lawyers to also build and deploy customised apps which delight users, enhance productivity and develop tech savvy lawyers.

Marina Yastreboff

Legal Counsel | University of New South Wales

Marina has a passion for technology and the practice of law. As leader of the Australian Society for Computers and Law, she actively promotes the adoption of technology by the profession, while also addressing critical issues such as the ethical impact of emerging technology on society. Her LegalTech projects include creation of a self-service portal, using O365 to streamline brand governance work flows, and translation of sustainability by design principles into smart contracts.