

2020 New to In-house Lawyer of the Year

Jenna Adamson

Legal Counsel | L'Oréal A/NZ

Jenna Adamson aligned with L'Oréal A/NZ's accelerated speed of change (including 65% increase in legal matters YTD August 2020) and led a new way of working using automated emails. She directly supported the eCommerce-focused CMO team, and embraced the intersect between digital transformation and the law, enabling her to lead the Communications Portfolio for the newly-formed Digital Law Association.

Stella Loong

Senior Legal Adviser | Cenitex

Stella is a technology lawyer at Cenitex – the Victorian government's ICT services provider. Prior to Cenitex, she worked at a fintech unicorn and in private practice in Asia and Australia. Passionate about automating her job, she has built a range of digital tools to generate contracts and drive social procurement.

Nicole Mumford

Legal Counsel | RAC

Nicole wasted no time embracing her in-house role. She implemented an online workflow and ticketing system to enhance client instructions and enable key projects. She has run legal education sessions, driven stakeholder engagement through legal content creation, provided company secretarial support, and has become an active member of RAC's RAP Committee.

Kate Sherburn

Legal Counsel | Who Gives A Crap

Joining Who Gives A Crap as their first ever Legal Beagle, Kate has established the entire legal function from the bottom up! Kate successfully balances the speed and risk management required in such a high growth company, and loves solving the weird and wacky queries that get thrown her way.
