

Nesha R. Munroe

*Head of Privacy and Information Governance
Corporate Counsel, Privacy, IT, Information Security
Toyota Tsusho America, Inc.*

Nesha Munroe is a talented privacy, information security, and data governance attorney with over 15 years of legal experience developing and implementing comprehensive privacy and information governance programs. She currently serves as the Head of Privacy and Information Governance at Toyota Tsusho, America (“TAI”) a tier one supplier for Toyota Manufacturing. In this role, Nesha oversees all aspects of TAI’s international privacy operations, including privacy compliance, third party risk management, and data governance. She works closely with the Chief Information Officer and Chief Information Security Officer as well as business leaders to ensure strong data, privacy, and information security protections are integrated into new products and services from design through retirement.

Prior to TAI, Nesha was the Privacy Officer for North America at an international asset management company, where she established the company's first privacy office and privacy management program in North America. Prior to practicing law, Nesha worked for 5 years at a leading investment bank on Wall Street.

Nesha is a licensed attorney, with a Juris Doctor degree from Emory University School of Law. She holds the Certified Information Privacy Manager (CIPM) and Certified Information Systems Security Professional (CISSP) certifications.